Council Orders Wood Removed From Roadways

Spring fever was evident at the April 1 council meeting when drainage, renovations and complaints re wood piles took up considerable time.

Acting on complaint from a taxpayer, the council discussed the piling of wood on the road at Park Terrace and other sections of the town. All in attendance were of the opinion that such cases were unsightly and action should be taken. A motion was made to the effect that notice be given all wood must be placed within the owner's yard. In the case of the one specific complaint, the town constable was ordered to see that the wood was removed from the road allowance.

As contentious a matter as to face any town council was brought in by a delegation of apartment residents in West Coleman. It appears the landlord in the case gave notice to tenants to vacate their suites unless they dealt at his place of business. Threats of carpenters entering the suites to work were alleged to have been made. Council was loud in its protest on this matter and referred the people involved to the Rental Control Board. The Town constable was authorized to prevent carpenters or other unauthorized persons to molest the tenants.

Clearing up a lot of unfinished business, the city fathers passed the proposal of increasing the fee for collecting ashes by 10c effective April 1. The requisition of the Municipal Hospital underwent careful scrutiny and was accepted. The Coleman School District requisition that has been hanging fire will receive extra consideration when Mayor Aboussay and Councilor Toppiano meet with the Board for further details.

Coleman Volunteer Fire Brigade, in submitting its report asked Council to provide six each of shoes, hats, and coats; one 1½-inch fog nozzle, canisters for gas masks, and cupboards in which the men could keep their clothes. Council agreed to the purchase of these items and also for a check-up on the fire truck. A vote of thanks was tendered the brigade for their excellent performance and intense interest shown. A similar thank you was extended on receipt of a new truck siren donated by members of the brigade.

The report of Police Chief Allen showed an active 3-month period with various petty theft and automobile cases. Along the line of legal work, consideration was given to hiring a town solicitor. The Mayor and councilor Toppiano were asked to look into the matter.

Steve Bettinger, attendant at the nuisance grounds was given a raise of $25 per month during the discussion of financial matters. During this period it was also decided to accept the 1951 assessment as the basis of taxation.

Lethbridge Laundry wrote the council complaining about the license levied against them, asserting the amount being too high. Council decided to stand its ground in this matter.

Correspondence from Wm. Holyk drew attention to muddy conditions on the avenue from 6th to 7th Street east. Mr. Holyk requested that this year's program include a few loads of gravel and a drainage ditch for the locality. The matter was referred to Works and Property.

Motordrome requested permission to move one or both pumps to the east side of their building and the installation of no parking signs during alterations. Permission was granted. An additional request came from McColl-Frontenac asking that the transformer and poles at the Motordrome be moved approximately 15 feet north to facilitate alterations. Council granted the request providing McColl-Frontenac pay the cost.

Mr. and Mrs. Higginbotham To Make Their Home In Calgary

Coleman loses two worthy citizens in the persons of Mr. and Mrs. T. Higginbotham. Mr. Higginbotham heard the "Call of the West" in the year 1902 and came out on a harvest excursion from Prince Edward Island and worked in Manitoba and stopped off in Manitoba and worked in the harvest till the fall, then journeyed further west to Golden, B.C., where he was employed for two years. In 1904 he came to Alberta where he took up a homestead in the Edmonton district. Mr. Higginbotham found homesteading and batching a very lonely life and in the fall he returned to his old home back East. In 1907 he married his old sweetheart, and returned West to Coleman, Mrs. Higginbotham joining him two years later where they have resided since. Mr. Higginbotham retired from the International Mine in 1950. They have purchased a home in Calgary where they will reside in the future. Two of their daughters reside in this city and two in British Columbia. Their friends in Coleman wish them many years of happiness in their retirement. Mr. Higginbotham is a member of the Elks Lodge and a former member of the I.O.O.F.

On Tuesday April 1st. Victoria Rebekah Lodge at the close of their regular meeting held a party in honor of Mrs. T. Higginbotham, P.N.G. but due to illness she was unable to be present. Mrs. H. Boulton, Mrs. M. E. Cornett and Mrs. G. Ford, D.D.P. were appointed as a committee to visit Mrs. Higginbotham and present her with a farewell gift from the members of the Lodge.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of St. Paul's United church, met at the home of Mrs. T. Holstead to honor Mrs. T. Higginbotham on April 3 last. Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. W. Wilson, Mrs. J. Nash, Mrs. B. Young, Mrs. Jordan and Mrs. Harold Simmons. A dainty lunch was served, after which, on behalf of the members, Mrs. E. Ash, sr., presented the honored guest with a gift in the form of, a white Bilt.

Mrs. Ash spoke of the many years of faithful work Mrs. Higginbotham had given to her church, being a member of the Auxiliary for over 30 years. Mrs. Higginbotham gave thanks to the members for the lovely gift and kind words, and said that it was with regret that she is leaving her many friends in Coleman.

ate. alterations. Council granted the request providing McColl-Frontenac pay the cost.

Handling their own business last, the council discussed renovating and redecorating the council chambers. The building committee was instructed to submit plans and recommendations for discussion.

In attendance were the Mayor, town clerk and councilors Toppiano, Ramsey, Jenkins, Woods, and Wavrean and Dibble. —GJY

Joe Plant Was Once A Horse Wrangler

The group shown above standing in front of the Coleman Hotel shows Joe Plant, wearing the cowboy hat, others include hockey players Harry Holmes and Jim Sims, also Mac Hunter and Scott Campbell.

The third of the old-timers series in the Journal features well known Joe Plant. Joe can well be termed as a Coleman old-timer having passed through here in the years 1900, 1901, and 1902, and finally taking up permanent residence here in 1903.

During his first trips through the district he recalls that Coleman was just a few shacks. At that time Joe was wrangling horses with his father. This will recall the days of the cattle drives from Texas as the distance covered with the horses was about the same. Joe and his father drove horses from Montana through Elko and sometimes Kingsgate to Fernie and on to Crow's Nest. Because of little grazing land the drive from Montana to Crow's Nest was carried out in the minimum of time. Little grass grew along the trail as it contained timber and high ferns only. At Crow's Nest the horses reached the first grazing grounds and were rested there for a few days. Crow's Nest was then known as Bull's Head. Joe explained this name being used because the narrowing of the Pass at Turtle Mountain and over the old Summit road as Crow's Nest were fenced off and bulls kept in the zone. The western extreme of this bull confine was called then Bull's Head.

The horses were then driven to the flats now covered by the slide at Frank and grazed there again for a few days. The herd was later pushed along the fenceless foothills north of Lundbreck along the Porcupine hills to Calgary. The last lap of the journey was from Calgary to Edmonton. This drive took about three weeks. This seems to have been a very profitable way to make a living driving horses in those days. The horses were bought in Montana for 6 to 9 dollars a head and brought a return of about 40 dollars a head in Edmonton. Teams were sold for as high as $400. Most of the horses were sold to farmers in the Edmonton district and quite a few of them were sold to the R.C.M.P. Some even saw service in the Boer War.

When Mr. Plant came to Coleman in 1903 he was employed by a contractor in building the Coleman Hotel. The only single girl in Coleman at that time was Daisy Wheatcroft, the late Mrs. H. McMillan.

Hod Pharis Suffers Burns In Accident

Hod Pharis, entertainer over radio station C.F.C.N. and one of Alberta's fastest climbing western cowpopers, recently suffered severe burns due to an explosion while at work. Latest word received from Calgary states that Hod has been released from hospital and is making satisfactory progress. Equally fast progress is reported for his song "Call of the Mountains". Five prominent recording companies have cut the record and back it with extensive publicity. A limited supply has reached the Canadian market at this time.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Holstead, accompanied by the latter's parents Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Brown of Pincher Creek, and Mrs. J. Jackson, were Calgary visitors over the week-end where they visited Mr. and Mrs. Holstead's daughter and son-in-law Mr. and Mrs. H. Pharis.

head in Edmonton. Teams were sold for as high as $400. Most of the horses were sold to farmers in the Edmonton district and quite a few of them were sold to the R.C.M.P. Some even saw service in the Boer War.

When Mr. Plant came to Coleman in 1903 he was employed by a contractor in building the Coleman Hotel. The only single girl in Coleman at that time was Daisy Wheatcroft, the late Mrs. H. McMillan.

Previous to coming to Coleman Joe worked in Fernie after the Fernie explosion Scotty Freeman of Pincher was working up there at the same time. He was employed at a saw mill west of Fernie and hauled away sawdust in what Joe describes as a huge barrow. Scotty has always been teased in Pincher for not having worked a day in his life, but now he can confirm that he has. At the time of the Fernie fire Joe was one of the many who fought it. The fire started about 200 yards from his home probably by a camp fire which went quite numerous at that time.

The morning after the Frank slide, Joe was among those engaged in rescue work. Later he worked on the first wagon road across the slide.

In Coleman, Mr. Plant entered into partnership with Harry Antle operating a livery stable and garage which was situated where the cenotaph is presently located. The building was torn down and the lumber used to build today's curling rink. Joe can boast of having one of the two first cars in Coleman—a model T Ford in 1913, but he explains that roads were certainly not made for cars then (are they today for that matter?).

As is well known, Joe has been driving in town for many years, a job he has been doing since 1911.

Elks Open Red Cross Campaign Here This Week

Coleman Elks opened the Red Cross Campaign for funds this week with approximately fifty canvassers doing a complete coverage of the town.

During their regular meeting a week ago last Friday night the local lodge appointed a committee consisting of W. Dutil, Chas. Freeman, Chas. Pilford, and Thos. Holstead, and divided the town into 13 separate zones to facilitate a more comprehensive canvass. Canvassers started on their grounds this week and will carry on for a two week period.

The work of the Red Cross is growing every year and is worthy of generous support. Be prepared when the canvassers call at your place and give as much as you can.

SIGNS OF SPRING

Robins — road crews at work — little boys walking down the street all a-jingle with a pocketful of marbles — pools of water from natural causes and BROKEN HYDRANTS.

Some one once said that spring was a time when young men's fancies turned to what the girls have been thinking about all year. Could this short season for the males and the necessary rush be the cause of one of our future grooms moving fire hydrants that seem to impede his progress?

Alberta's Brier Rink To Play In Bunny Bonspiel

Playing in the Bellevue Arena, the curlers will be taking part in one of the latest spiels of the year and guaranteed a good time. Officials in charge have worked for some time to assure a smooth running spiel and interesting weekend. Len Smith, Lethbridge ice-maker, is preparing the arena.

Mr. and Mrs. A.L. Freeman Leaving to Reside at Lathbridge

On Fri., April 4, 45 friends met at the Freeman home in the form of a surprise and farewell party. A jolly evening was enjoyed with singing and dancing, and refreshments were served by the hostesses. At the close of the party. Mr. J. Hanrahan, on behalf of the friends present, presented Mr. and Mrs. Freeman with a beautiful marble base Smoking Stand, then all joined in singing "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows." Mr. and Mrs. Freeman were a popular couple and will be missed in community circles. Mr. Freeman has been employed in the Department of Public Works for some time in this district.

On Tuesday evening April 1st. at the close of the regular meeting Victoria Rebekah Lodge a social hour was enjoyed, a dainty lunch was served after which on behalf of the members of Victoria Lodge Mrs. E. Lonsbury presented Mrs. A. Freeman with a gift and voiced her regrets on the loss of a good member and a willing worker also wished her every success in her new undertakings. Mrs. Freeman thanked the members for the lovely gift and voiced her regrets on having to leave her many friends in the Lodge.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hillary wish to announce the engagement of their daughter Josephine Elizabeth to Mr. Wesley H. Curtis, of Kennewick, Washington, the marriage to take place Saturday April 19th at 10 a.m. in Holy Ghost Church, Coleman. A reception will be held at the home of the bride's parents from 3 to 6 p.m. All friends welcome.

School Board Deals With Many Problems

The Coleman school board held its regular meeting on Monday evening, April 7. Present at the meeting were chairman Cornett, trustees Clark, Dunford & Holly. School principal H. Allen and Mayor Aboussay were also present. The board explained various items on its budget to Mayor Aboussay and the reason for their increased expenditures this year. Mr. Aboussay wondered if it was possible to receive a larger grant from the government.

Mr. F. DeCocco was appointed head janitor by the board and he will be responsible for all work in the schools. For routine janitor work, he will be responsible to the principal but for major work he will be responsible to the works and property committee. It was felt that this arrangement would have definite advantages for all concerned over the previous set-up where each janitor was independent of the others.

A letter was received from the Department of Education instructing the board as to the information required by the department in regards to the proposed two-room addition to the Cameron school. A letter was also received from the architects employed by the board informing the board of their fee in the planning and supervision of the work in building the proposed rooms.

Two applications for positions on the local staff were received and filed. Among the remaining items of business were the Department of Education's acceptance of the budget, the authorized payment of the newly purchased school bus in full, and the acceptance of monthly bills for payment.

The board also authorized the purchase of a floor for the school and a vacuum cleaner for cleaning the numerous brushes in the school. Mr. Allen submitted his report and informed the board that the Crows Nest Pass Nurses Association will offer a scholarship of $100 to a grade 12 graduate in the Pass who will enter nurses' training. Details of how the award will be made is not yet known.

Bicycle racks which are badly needed around the school will be made by some of the school pupils being instructed in woodwork by Mr. F. DeCocco. If the board is satisfied with the results it will place an order with the group for all necessary stands and remunerate the group for their work.

Because of the increase in traffic in the vicinity of the school, the secretary was instructed to ask the town council for proper school zone signs.

Nurses Association Discusses Scholarship

The A.A.R.N. of the Crows Nest Pass held its regular meeting at the home of Miss Carey Harrison of Blairmore on April 3. Mrs. M. Johnson reported that the sum of $54.00 was cleared on the tea held on March 15, for which the nurses wish to thank the public for their support and also all who donated or helped in any way.

Discussion of the scholarship took place and the committee consisting of Mrs. Melvin Dunford, Mrs. M. Zemek and Miss Marie Berre was appointed to interview the high school principals of each town, and to report at the next meeting.

A film on medical aspects of A.B.C. Warfare will be shown at the next meeting to be held on May 5, at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. M. Zemek of Frank. All nurses in the Pass are welcome.

The School Trustee

SCHOOL TAXES FORM a considerable part of the tax bill of most Canadian property owners, and whether they are actively interested in education or not, the operation of the schools in their community should be a matter of concern to them. While the taxpayer should, and very often does, show interest in the schools and give additional help and support when it is needed, it is the school trustees who carry the responsibility for the operation of the schools, the hiring of staff and other important matters affecting education in the community. An elected body, the trustees are often the object of criticism but they are almost always men and women who are sincerely interested in the schools and anxious to do their best for the pupils in their districts.

Agree Teacher Is Important

At the annual meeting of the Canadian School Trustees Association, held recently in Saskatoon, problems connected with their work were discussed by representatives of seven provinces. They agreed that the teacher is the most important factor in successful education and that fine school buildings and equipment are secondary to good teachers in providing a good education for children. The importance of maintaining standards of education rather than reducing taxes at the expense of the welfare of the school was also discussed, as was the need for trustees to be familiar with educational problems, and with the social problems connected with youth in their communities.

Are Interested In Problems

People who are interested in education will for the most part agree with the opinions of the trustees in these matters. No matter how fine a school building may be or how much expensive equipment is provided, a poor teacher cannot educate the child. If there must be a choice between building expensive schools or paying salaries which will attract able teachers there is no doubt but that the choice should be for the good teacher. It would be ideal to have both, and in many places this is possible, but it is no doubt often the lot of the trustees to make decisions of this kind. It is interesting to learn the views the Canadian school trustees are taking on this and other problems connected with education at this time.

Farmers Advised To Use Licenced Canadian Wheat

WINNIPEG.—A plea to Manitoba farmers to maintain the high quality of Canadian wheat in world markets by growing licenced varieties was issued by agronomists of the Manitoba department of agriculture.

They issued an article by Dr. J. A. Anderson, chief chemist of the board of grain commissioners, which listed these varieties as recommended for Manitoba:

Red Spring wheat—Lee, Redman, Thatcher, Regent, and in northern areas, Saunders.

Durum—Stewart, Mindum and Carleton.

Dr. Anderson said the quality of Canadian wheat would be destroyed if any farmers decided to grow unlicensed varieties. The average baking quality of wheat exported by Canada would suffer, and it would begin to lose its reputation and premium position on world markets.

Some farmers, his article said, still grow unlicensed varieties imported from the United States and other countries. The American variety "Mida" was the commonest "offender".

Yet in Canada, Mida cannot grade above No. 3 Northern. More than three per cent. of this wheat in a carlot of a licensed variety which otherwise would grade No. 1 or No. 2 was enough to bring the grade for the whole car down to No. 3.

Meteor, Monarch and Mercury are the names given to these three triplet calves born on the farm of Joseph Wickson, reeve of Trafalgar township, Ont. Funny and Otherwise

A woman answered the bell on her front door and found a small boy standing there with a bow and arrow in his hand.

"Lady," he said pleadingly, "can I have my other arrow?"

"Yes," agreed the housewife kindly, "if I can get it for you. Where is it?"

The boy studied his toes for a long moment. Finally he spoke. "It's stuck in your cat."

Prof.: "Name the outstanding accomplishment of the Romans."

Student: "They understood Latin."

July—"Why did you ever marry such an awful man?"

Jane—"He asked me, dearie."

"Why on earth do you keep pulling that ridiculous face?"

"The doctor told me to keep smiling and keep a stiff upper lip."

A man who had retired to a sleepy little village on the shores of the Pacific was very fond of fishing off the little pier near his home. One day he found himself right next to a juvenile angler.

"How's it going, sonny?" he asked. "Have you caught anything yet?"

"Nav," answered the boy. "I had one on the hook a while ago, but he unbit and div."

During some particularly tough training, the men in a parachute battalion went to an officer with a complaint. "It's the new cook, sir," they explained, "he's trying to make us soft. Every time we have boiled barbed wire for dinner he puts sugar in it."

"Darling," said the sentimental young man, "wouldn't you like to sail away on a silvery moonbeam—just you and me together—towards those twinkling stars where all is infinite, even love. And we could dwell in eternal bliss far from—" "Oh, I couldn't! Jimmy—not tomorrow," interrupted the girl. "I have an appointment with my headresser at four."

A lover's sailor decided to celebrate pay day by sending a telegram to his girl. After chewing on the pencil several minutes he finally handed the message to the clerk which read, "I love you, I love you, I love you."

The clerk reading it said, "You are allowed an additional word for the same price."

The sailor pondered a minute then added, "Regards."

Early Settlers Would Be Astonished At The Diversified Business Run By Local Lumber Merchants

A new Canadian settler of 1880 set forth in his journal a description of the average prairie home of that time as a "dwelling of logs, hewn smooth on both sides, then well plastered between the logs." "Under the floor of each house," he wrote, "is a cellar for storage of root crops for winter use."

He and his family were given temporary shelter in the upper part of a friend's shanty. This "upper part" was in reality a lumber loft.

He and his sons drew logs for their own home and teamed the rest of their lumber by ox-drawn cart across country twenty miles to and from the nearest navigable river where it was unloaded by steamer. There was no sawmill in the area.

He was unable to plaster his new home before the first frost set in. Consequently the "thermometer frequently fell to 30 below in our bedroom."

"My little daughter," he wrote, "used to get up in the morning with her hair all frozen."

Not all settlers were so luckless, nor did he consider himself so. His experience was not unusual. There was just enough comfort for endurance and there was no grandeur in these early homes.

The Canadian Pacific railway was shortly afterwards under construction westward out of Winnipeg. In each of the settlements it created, lumber yards sprang up to provide a focal point for building materials needed in the construction of new homes. By river and rail from the sawmills, lumber headed for the yards.

Those lumber centres were a great boon to settlers for there they could buy boards in varying lengths and purchase at the same time, their slings, lath, building paper, sash and doors.

Until about 1925 the lumber merchant continued to confine himself fairly strictly to the sale of lumber when he started to add nails, hinges and other builder's hardware to his stock.

Then he began to branch out in building materials, some totally unrelated in composition to lumber but used in equal measure for construction.

Today the settler who hauled his own logs would stand astonished at the variety of building materials he could procure within his own community through a lumber merchant.

He could get a great deal more than lumber. The lumber yard of today runs diversified businesses in building products where lumber sales often count for less than 50 per cent.

The wide variety of uses, for which new building products are put, would make his head spin.

He could still get his two-by-fours and shingles.

There would be plenty of lumber—large stacks of spruce from northern Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba, larch and hemlock from the interior of British Columbia and the Canadian Rockies. Douglas fir, cedar shingles and finishing woods of cedar and fir from the Pacific coast. All would be piled in the yard and ready to go into construction and remodeling of homes, barns and community buildings.

But he would find alongside them in large measure new materials working improvements he would find incredible.

To insulate his home, he could buy shavings, spun glass, asbestos wool or a special preparation of dried moss to stuff between walls and under the roof to prevent loss of heat. To prevent moisture condensation from rotting his walls and paint peeling off the sides of his house under a hot sun, he could buy a new product called vapor-seal paper.

He could finish the outside of his home with lumber, stucco, or a composition siding of asbestos that looked like stone or brick and could be rolled on. Or he could roll on an asphalt sheathing with a special barbed nail to hold it tight. Both these composition materials would give added insulation.

For his roof he could get cedar shingles. But, in addition, he could buy shingles made of asbestos or dry felt saturated with asphalt and sometimes finished with colored granules that would give a slate surface effect. His shingles would never require painting and because they were fireproof, would also give him a slight reduction in the insurance rate on his house.

To finish the inside of his home, he would find plaster and wallpaper. But he would also find a plaster board made of pressed paper finished with a thin layer of plaster which he could apply himself.

He would see a new craze for picture windows, large windows bringing the picture of pleasant outdoor scenery into his living room. Some would be double-glazed windows, two panes of glass sealed into a single unit providing insulation, preventing frosting or fogging, and doing away with storm windows.

If he caught on completely with the modern trend, he could buy glass blocks for his basement windows, his kitchen and around his doorways.

For his ceiling and walls he could use panels of brushed wood in soft colors. For his floors he could use asphalt or rubber tiles, the latter a quiet underfoot as a deeply carpeted floor.

He would find plywood used in doors, sub-floors, wall-panelling and cupboards.

His chimney, he would have custom-built of metal.

For restaurants, stores, offices and community buildings, he would find the lumber merchant had stocked acoustic tile panels used in ceilings to cut down on sound and noise.

If he decided to build a granary, he would find the lumber merchant ready to pre-cut his rafters, list every stick of material needed and give him an overall price. He would get a free blueprint into the bargain.

Finally, he could have for his barn, a metal-clad building, all aluminum on the outside with rafters and framing of lumber.

This man, pioneer of today's western Canadian home, could be more than proud of his boast. But he might add regretfully that he had been born a half-century too soon.

(This is the second article in a series of five on the services of the retail lumber merchant to western Canadian communities.)

NOTES AND COMMENTS

So You're Getting Married

Let's have a look at you. Hair — all there. No grey showing. No wrinkles. Eyes glassy. Yes, we'd venture to say you're ripe for the occasion. Before you take the final plunge, let's take a look at what is in store for you. Don't think we're trying to discourage you in any way. That is not the point of this article. You are too far gone to turn back anyway.

We suppose you've made a complete survey of your finances. Let's see now. There's the kitchen suite, the bedroom suite, and the front room suite to start with. That usually means an outlay of at least $700. Of course you'll need a place to put all this, which means a place to live. You've looked for a place? How nice after investigating seventeen rumors and finding that you've always been a day late, you now have a place. You think you're all set, don't you? Well you are! Except that the bride-to-be likes this room and that room done in this and that color scheme, so naturally you tackle the job. The first room you hit, enthusiasm is oozing out all over you. The second room isn't so easy. It's beginning to feel like work and by the time you hit the third room, it is work. Oh, yes, we forgot to mention it, but you now have a paint bill.

Shall we hurry and make our appointment with the photographer? Let's see now, we'll take three of these, three of these and six of those. A bargain really, only about $20. Of course there's a little deposit you have to put up for the appointment because the photographer would like to see you turn up. Five dollars? Well, we usually like to make it ten! Only a small deposit of 50%. Shrug it off boy, you're just beginning. Good grief, we have to order flowers. For the bride's bouquet — 15 dollars; for the bride's maid, about $8; for you and your best man, a boutonniere for 80 cents. Do you still feel important?

Let's continue. You may be a little dizzy at this time so we'll have to remind you of a few other essentials. Wedding license, reception, minister's services, wedding dress, bridesmaid's gift, wedding cake, and an additional 50% of the above expenses for the etceteras.

If you have a few days to spare, you may move some furniture into your future home. The grimmest, most obstinate, doggonest piece of equipment to handle is the stove. Be sure you have friends handy. If your luck is at its worst, it may be necessary to rip out half of the door jamb and remove one or two doors from their hinges. With luck and careful friends it's possible to install the thing without taking the glaze off it.

You know, the little woman gets the best deal. Everything is in her honor. You just go along with the wedding. Take the "Shower" for instance. It's a gathering where a male is simply intolerable. She receives various forms of congratulations, best wishes and luck while you sit around somewhere and feel sorry for yourself. Someone should introduce a shower for men but in the meantime you could always dress up with dark glasses, a beard, and a sign reading "The Groom", and sit on the curb with a tin cup.

After the wedding, you say, the worst will be over. Then you can breathe normally again. Have you thought of the monthly bills and payment you'll have to meet? How about the light and water bill, the coal bill, the groceries, and the thousand others that you and I have yet to know exist?

Let me have your handkerchief as soon as you're through, I've got something in my eye too.

Pass Roads

If you are a motorist, this will be no news to you; but, just in case you haven't been out very much this spring, there are one or two things you should know. If you plan a trip out of the Pass your motoring will be quite pleasant after the first 45 minutes. If you intend to confine your motoring only to the Pass we would suggest you take a bus.

We don't know what the average life of a car is in Canada but we feel sure that it is only about half that much through the Pass. From Lundbreck to the B.C. border, our twentieth century roads lose about two hundred years. True the Department of Public Works is going to put the road through and all that remains is a little patching here and there and then the hard-surface will be applied. The funny part about it all is that the present gravelled part of the road is by far the better part on which to travel. On it your car will have a small continuous vibration and only occasionally will you lose a shock-absorber. On the old surfaced part, however, any shock-absorber that you have under your car will surely be shattered, you will be extremely lucky if your tires do not get bruised, and any rattles you may already have in your car will be multiplied three-fold.

The business men in the Pass are quite interested in the coming tourist trade and rightly so, as we should all be. If we are to attract any of the passing tourists we certainly won't do it by making them drive over our roads. If there's anything that would encourage them to keep right on going, it's our abundance of pot-holes. Too bad we can't sell them.

Are all the town councils in the Pass waiting for the government to pave their main street? If they are, is it impossible to mix a little batch of asphalt and fill these holes even if it would be a temporary measure?

The speed limits in the Pass towns are all about 20 to 25 miles per hour. With the present roads this rate of speed could be termed downright reckless. Anyone travelling that speed is a sucker for punishment. There may be a few places where you may let the speedometer venture close to 40 m.p.h., but no sooner do you reach that speed when the brake has to be applied. Actually it's best to leave the car on blocks.

Next time you're on the road will you try and find a piece of highway about 100 yards long which is absolutely in good condition? If you succeed tell us, we'd like to know.

Legion Holds Smoker Commemorating Vimy

Approximately 150 members of the Coleman Legion and Ladies' Auxiliary B.E.S.L. gathered at the Legion Friday night to commemorate the Canadian victory on Vimy Ridge during World War I.

Acting Chairman Sid Short kept the activities going during the evening. Various members were asked to perform. Bill Smith, Edna Campbell, Mrs. Geroux, Fred Johnson, Mrs. Smith, Fred Beddington, Archie Anderson, Adam Wilson, made up the vocal part of the entertainment. Burt Bond, Mr. Parkinson, and Fred Beddington, combined their talents on various instruments. Mr. Moore brought out the Highland spirit with his bagpipe selections.

Harry Garner, veteran of the Vimy Ridge assault, spoke on the occasion. Mr. Garner felt that although Vimy seems a long way back to those who were there that Easter Monday morning of April 9, 1917, the memory will never fade.

Vimy Ridge, one of Canada's major victories in World War I, cost 7,000 lives. The French Army had lost 26,000 men in previous attempts to take the Ridge from the enemy.

The Vimy Memorial in France, Mr. Garner explained, was built in commemoration of all men in all battles. Of 426,500 men Canada sent overseas in the First World War, one out of every seven was killed. This represents a cost of 60,000 lives. Mr. Garner felt that for those paid the supreme sacrifice, nothing can be done but he would like to see the Legion across the Dominion do more for those who came back broken in body.

Padre Moss also addressed the gathering as he told them of his recollections during the middle thirties when, chancing to see members of the Canadian Legion in London he travelled with them to France to the Vimy Memorial where the Duke of Windsor, then the Prince of Wales, spoke at the ceremonies at the memorial.

Official Visits Local O.O.R.P. Lodge

Approximately 100 members of the O.O.R.P. from Lethbridge, Macleod and Coleman gathered in the I.O.O.F. hall on Tuesday, Mar. 25. The occasion marked the official visit to the Coleman Lodge of District Deputy Supreme Honored Royal Lady O'Boone. Lady Somshor presented the District Deputy with a corsage.

Lady Somshor presented corsages to H.R.L. Marshalsay of Lethbridge and to H.R.L. Leona Edgar of Macleod. Lady Panik then presented H.R.L. Somshor with a corsage.

The Coleman lodge exemplified the initiatory ceremonies with a class of eight. The District Deputy complimented the Coleman lodge officers and drill staff in their work. She was later presented with a lapel pin.

After the ceremonies a banquet was held.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Wilson Honored at Farewell

The officials of the McGillivray mine were hosts to a farewell party on Saturday, Mar. 29 in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Wilson who are leaving Coleman to take up residence in Drumheller. After a sumptuous banquet provided by the ladies of the Eastern Star, numerous speakers addressed the gathering.

Presentation of a travelling bag was made to Mr. Wilson by Mr. E. Allen on behalf of the Gillivray officials. Mrs. Wilson was presented with a corsage. Mr. Allen in his remarks touched upon several phases of Mr. Wilson's career. Mr. Wilson replied with a few well-chosen words. A musical program followed which featured Mrs. R. Campbell, Mr. W. H. Goodwin, Mr. F. Beddington.

Guests at the party were Mr. and Mrs. A. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. F. Harquail, Mr. and Mrs. H. Wilton-Clark, Mr. and Mrs. H. Millar, and Mr. and Mrs. J. B. D. Brown.

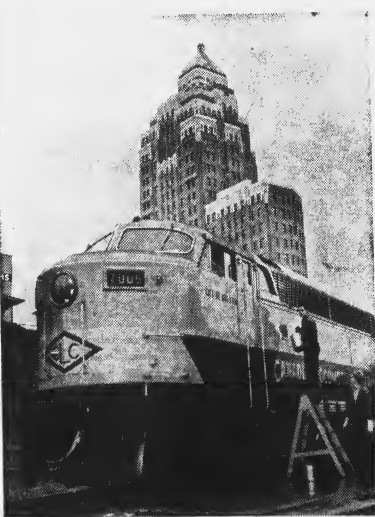

The evening was rounded off with dancing.

CIVIL DEFENCE ENDS THEORY INSTRUCTIONS

The Civil Defence organization in Coleman has ended its instructions in their present theoretical forms. All the topics have been covered. The next step is the practical training of its personnel which will start on or about April 23.

The first school for this practical phase will be conducted for the section wardens for whom the training is most important. It is hoped that this second school will be covered in about six sessions. Each of the sessions will accommodate twenty-five persons at a time.

The Journal has Model 5 Remington Rand portables in stock and students who plan on purchasing their own machines to aid in their typing classes can secure one of these beautiful machines without a moment's delay.

POWERFUL NEW DIESEL FOR MOUNTAIN RUN

Even Vancouver's Marine Building doesn't dwarf the "City of Kingston," giant locomotive diesel-electric locomotive built at Kingston, Ontario, by the Canadian Locomotive Company. Here seen receiving a beauty treatment, the 3200-horsepower twin-unit power plant has been making test runs on the CPR main line between Calgary and Vancouver, as well as on the Penikese-Kettle Valley-Kootenay line. Tests are now so far advanced that the "City of Kingston"—first diesel to haul a scheduled passenger train right through to the coast—is considered almost sure to remain in mountain service. Employment of this powerful new locomotive in this area is the latest step in a CPR dieselization program for the Rockies which has already seen construction of a special diesel maintenance shop at Calgary.

Former Resident Dies At Vancouver

Word has been received of the passing of Mary Ann Burns at Vancouver, March 22. A former resident of Coleman, her passing came as a great shock to her many friends despite her 82 years of age. A woman of kind and considerate nature, she came to be known as Grandma Burns to a host of Coleman and Vancouver residents.

Coming to Coleman from her birthplace of Cumberland England in 1912 she resided here until the death of her husband due to an accident at the McGillivray mine in 1925. She left then to reside with relatives in Vancouver. During the years after her moving to Vancouver, the deceased paid many a visit to Coleman. In comparatively good health, she passed away quietly while sitting in her chair. The only sign of sickness immediately preceding her passing was the complaint of pain.

Funeral services were held on Thursday, March 27 with interment in Forest Lawn Memorial Park. Pallbearers were former Coleman residents J. Johnston, D. Thomas, J. Hirst and Wm. Richardson, and G. Simpson and D. Cameron. Quite a number of former residents of Coleman attended the services.

Surviving to mourn her loss are two sons, Tom of Vancouver and John, C.P.R. agent at Frontier, Sask.; and one daughter, Mrs. I. A. James of Vancouver. Also surviving are seven grandchildren, twelve great grandchildren and a brother Richard Treflin, in England. Dick Treflin, of Coleman is a nephew.

Hospital Aux. Holds Active Meeting

On April 2, last, a meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary to the C.N.P. Municipal hospital was presided over by Mrs. S. G. Bowman, the president for the coming year. The meeting was held in the recreation room of the hospital and had a good turnout.

Most important event of the evening was a $50 donation from the ladies of the Blairmore Knitting Group, presented by Mrs. C. Fabro and Mrs. J. Urwin toward the Auxiliary project of an operating room lamp, and needless to say was greatly appreciated by all Auxiliary members.

The treasurer's report was read by Mrs. L. Golebiowski, and Mrs. R. Tonge was appointed to introduce all new members. Two new members from Bellevue were welcomed. A discussion was held on the coming April 21st tea, to be held at the hospital. A deposit of $150.00 was also voted to be sent to Ingram & Bell toward the purchase of the lamp. A large amount of sewing was completed in the past month.

The mystery box, donated by Mrs. J. Morrison was won by Mrs. A. McQuarrie and the usual delightful lunch was served at the end of the meeting.

J. Stager Dies Suddenly

Joe Stager, 62, died at the Municipal Hospital Sunday evening following a heart attack. He became ill on his way home from church.

The deceased was born in Hladovka, Czechoslovakia. He came to Canada in 1927 from the U.S.A. and to Coleman in 1933. He had been planning to bring his family to Canada.

Surviving are his wife, two sons and a daughter in Czechoslovakia.

Funeral services will take place in Holy Ghost church Friday April 11 at 3 p.m. Very Rev. Dean Sullivan officiating. Interment will follow in Holy Ghost Cemetery.

Coleman Elks to Sponsor "Talent Hunt" Here Sun., May 4th

Some talented person from Coleman may be offered a chance to perform on the "Calgary Power Search For Talent" as well as win a valuable cash prize as the result of the joint efforts of Coleman Elks Lodge and the Bellevue Lions Club.

The much discussed Bellevue Lions Talent Hunt has its Coleman appearance scheduled for the Roxy theatre at 8 p.m. on Sun., May 4, under the auspices of the Elks Lodge. Those wishing to participate in this concert are urged to contact either Bert. Bond, Harold Simmons or Henry Zak, jr., as soon as possible.

A comprehensive program, the Bellevue Lions have arranged for similar programs at Fernie, Michel, Blairmore, Bellevue, Pincher Creek, Macleod, Cardston, Waterton, Claresholm and Raymond. The three Pass towns will be the last to perform.

Each town lines up talent trying for the honors from whom four judges from Bellevue Lions pick four winners. These four winners perform at a later date at Bellevue, this time by microphone to the judges in another building. These four new judges remain secret and judge the performer by voice alone, not seeing the act. From these four, two contestants are picked as finalists from that town. On May 24, the finalists from all centres convene at Bellevue for the final judging. The four top performers at this show will receive generous cash prizes and a chance to perform on the Calgary Power show with all expenses paid.

Coleman Elks are aware of the vast array of talent in this town and have got behind the scheme in order to give Coleman people a chance at the honors. It is hoped that everyone in the community will get behind the search and send someone from Coleman to that top billing on the radio show.

Curling Season Ends Cups Given at Banquet

Former Coleman Minister Dies At Edmonton

Rev. D. K. Allan, 77, retired minister of the United Church from Scotland in 1901 and was appointed a student missionary at Wetaskiwin. He was ordained in 1904 after completing his course in arts and theology at the University of Manitoba.

The first six years of his ministry were spent at Nakusp and Nicola in British Columbia, and on returning to Alberta he held pastorates at Vulcan, Coleman, Westlock and Tofteld. WAVES DEVOUR HOMES ON LAKE ONTARIO AND ERIE—Homes along 300 miles of Lake Erie and Lake Ontario shorelines took a severe beating from 60-mile-an-hour winds which whipped waves ashore often over the tops of houses. When the waves subsided at Long Branch, Ont., the shoreline was a mass of wreckage of homes and bathhouses. Many lost all their possessions and an appeal has been made to the provincial government.—Central Press Canadian.

Whole rows of houses became peninsulas and islands on Lake Ontario's north shore. It was the worst storm in 10 years, and destruction was magnified by the high water level of the lakes.—Central Press Canadian.

INVITE COMMUNIST TROOPS TO SURRENDER—In efforts to terminate the Korean war quickly and bloodlessly, the psychological warfare branch of the U.N. military headquarters is busily engaged in creating and dropping leaflets in enemy territory on the Korean battlefield. The theme of the leaflets is to urge the Chinese and Koreans to surrender. Instructions in English and Korean are from General Ridgway to U.N. troops, guaranteeing good treatment to all enemy soldiers coming into the U.N. lines to surrender in good faith. This leaflet depicts starvation, shellfire and exhaustion. The reverse side, (not shown), portrays Communist soldiers surrendering to U.N. troops.—Central Press Canadian.

BUTTON, BUTTON . . . Easily outshining all the other passengers in their clothes adorned with thousands of mother of pearl buttons Bert and Rebecca Matthews go into a dance called "Knees Up Mother Brown" on arriving at New York's Idlewild Airport, recently, from London. Senior king and queen of the Cockney Pearlies (charity collectors), the couple will take part in a British good-will bus tour of the United States. The 66-year-old Mrs. Matthews estimated there were about 30,000 pearl buttons on her costume and another 30,000 on her husband's outfit. She said she sewed them on over a period of years.

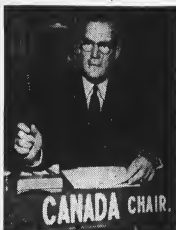

JUST LEARNED ABOUT BANKS—Paolo Grezno, 67-year-old Italian laborer of Seattle, Wash., is trying to get back to his native Naples and the wife he hasn't seen in 40 years. Arriving in New York, he went to the railway baggage room and tried to check himself as baggage even though he had $22,000 in bills—his life's savings. Taken to the Italian consul by patrolman Herbert Agnelli, Grezno turned over his fortune after much assurance that it would be deposited to his credit in an Italian bank. Here Mr. Grezno puts his cash—$22,000 of it—into coffee bags under the watchful eye of Agnelli.

THIS IS THE CHINESE GIRL who recently became Lady Lindsay, Britain's first Chinese peeress. She is with her husband and daughter, Erica, as they enroute from London last fall, bound for Australia. Her husband became Lord Lindsay at the death of his father. Lady Lindsay is the former Hsiao Li (Chinese for "Persuasive Dawn"), daughter of a Chinese army officer. The couple, wed in 1941, now lives in Australia where Lord Lindsay is a university research fellow.

RESIDENTS OF TORNADO AREA DAZED BY DISASTER—Stunned residents of Judsonia, Ark., gather in the main street of the little town which was almost completely demolished by tornadoes that swept through the southeast. At least 237 persons are believed dead and thousands reported injured and homeless in six storm-struck states. A federal survey of the tornado zone has been ordered with a view toward providing federal funds for relief.—Central Press Canadian.

WIELDS GAVEL—Chairman of the U.N. Disarmament commission in March, Canadian delegate Donald M. Johnson wields the gavel in debate in New York. Little is being accomplished in overcoming the one great blockade to disarmament—the reluctance of Russia to agree to international inspection.

NANCY HANEY, three, of Van Nuys, Calif., feeds her brother Kenney a bit of carrot as they wait for their mother to claim them at police headquarters. They had wandered from home, played with some paint for a while, then continued the adventure as rain soaked their heads. A passerby bundled them up in his sweater and coat and took them to the station. The frantic mother had already phoned police.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

The Colour of Love

A Man Misses a Lot
When He's Just a Bit
Colour Blind.

By ANNA E. WILSON

"I'M AFRAID it's just a little off, Miss Lannie. Must be two years since tangerine red was popular. It was sold out then and didn't restock." She surveyed Lannie's blond curls and earnest blue eyes anxiously. "You know, Miss Lannie, you do look well in that blue you wore at the tea. It was that new copenhagen and it brought out the colour in your eyes. We have a lovely model—"

Lannie took the small sample Miss Mitter'd been trying to match and placed it firmly in her purse. "Thanks, Miss Mitter, but blue just won't do."

She went into the drug store which was empty of all except Mrs. Craven. Lannie climbed a high stool behind the soda counter and slipped off her shoes. "An orange drink, Mrs. Craven. Whew, it's hot!"

"Did you get it, Lannie?" Mrs. Craven was soft and motherly. Lannie shook her head. "Thought I'd try Manders in town. They might still have some in stock."

Mrs. Craven chuckled sympathetically. "They might at that, Lannie. It was tangerine you wore at the Bailey party, wasn't it?"

Lannie nodded, sipping her drink. "Tangerine red, Mrs. Craven, with gold."

Mrs. Craven surveyed Lannie critically. "Maybe you put too much stock on matching that dress, Lannie. Now this new shade of copenhagen—"

Lannie shook a firm head. "Thanks for the drink, Mrs. Craven, but it's got to be tangerine. If I hurry I may get the next train and Miss Lorraine can start work on it right away. It has to be ready for Friday, you know," she added breathlessly.

Manders were sorry. Tangerine red was out. They were all stocked up with copenhagen blue. Wouldn't the young lady?

Lannie wouldn't. It was already Wednesday afternoon when a small shop on a side street unearthed a bolt from a forgotten shelf. Lannie held the sample close. Gave a small gasp.

"It is," she breathed joyously.

At the dressmaker's Miss Lorraine said she possibly couldn't get the dress finished by Friday night. She looked ready to drop. Out in the street, there were real tears in Lannie's eyes as she went back to Miss Mitter's and asked to see the model in blue.

It was beautiful. It fitted. It made her eyes the colour of cornflowers and her hair a thing of dreams, Miss Mitter cried. Lannie's heart was full. Aunt Sammie'd love it but—She'd met Marty Brown at the Bailey's party. He'd said, "Hello, Lannie," and she'd looked up into a face as friendly as his voice had been. Lannie stared, then gasped. "Why, you must be Callie Bailey's brother. Callie said he'd be here tonight."

They sat at a small table and sipped an orange drink. They looked at each other, suddenly shy—each knowing what the other felt.

"It's beautiful," he'd said then, just touching her dress.

"It's tangerine red," she'd confided, pleased that he'd noticed it. "A new shade of education trends here produced an estimate that at least ten new classrooms will be needed here in the next five years."

Tears caught in Lannie's throat thinking of Marty and that magic time just before they got engaged. At first, she'd thought he must be an artist, he seemed to love colour so. "What colour would you call that?" he would say, looking at the sunset from the beach.

"Coral pink and over there it's salmon red and the water—the water's blue-green," he'd say.

Marty'd chuckle then. "I love to hear you talk about colours, Lannie. The way you use one colour to describe another—it's tangerine red or coral pink or smoky salmon." He became so absorbed for a minute. "The jungles are full of colour, green and red and gold. I'll take you there some day, Lannie. You'll make it all seem alive and real!" It was then she knew that he was an explorer.

Three years later, his arm tight about her shoulder, "Why three years is no time at all, Lannie, and this is a very important expedition right into the heart of the jungles of South America." Putting a firm hand under her chin he turned up her grave little face. "Why, Lannie, it'll be no time at all until I'm back."

Three years can seem an eternity when your heart is in a strange country full of fierce animals and poisonous snakes. Three years without letters, eating your heart out, thinking of all the ways in which expeditions can get lost—and then a letter arrives and news in all the papers that he was coming home! The boat would arrive at seven on Friday and he would come straight to her.

They eyed each other shyly across a small table. Marty was hard and brown. "It's pretty," he said smiling as his fingers touched her dress.

"It's copenhagen blue," she said a bit sadly. "I tried to get tangerine red—like that first one—you know."

For a minute he looked uncomfortable, then his kind, humorous eyes smiled down at her as his brown hand covered her own. "Was that the colour it was, Lannie? You see, his voice was a bit apologetic, 'a man misses a lot when he's just a bit—colour blind.'"

"It's pretty," he said smiling as his fingers touched her dress.

Flabbergasted Red Cross workers of Green Bay, Wis., watched a slight young woman calmly pick two paperweights from her pocket and leave them before walking from the blood center. Predictions
Of World
Crop Prospects

ROME, Italy.—Predictions of world crop prospects for 1951-52 have been made by the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization. They are listed below:

Grains—A slight increase over last year. In coarse grains a slight reduction is expected.

Rice—A considerable gain in production may be shown if the widespread crop failures of the last two seasons are not repeated.

Sugar—A world record crop may be harvested this year. More than likely last year's record production will be reached.

Livestock Products—Meat and dairy products will have about the same output as last year.

Fisheries Products—There will be an increase in the catch because of increased catching capacities of various countries.

Fats and Oils—An increase in production is expected.

Fruit—An increase in citrus fruit production is expected and a moderate increase in dried fruit is forecast.

Coffee—An increase in production is forecast. It is thought possible the low point in Brazilian output has been passed and the outlook is improved.

Tea—Expansion of tea area in several areas indicates ample supplies. Cocoa—Production will increase and may surpass the 1949-50 record.

Tobacco—An increase is expected. Cotton—A considerable production increase is predicted. The world carryover is very low.

Wool—Production will increase slightly, but the total supply is expected to be below the previous year. This is because governmental stocks which were released in previous years have been exhausted.

Hard Fibers—A significant increase in output of hard fibers is expected.

Jute—The crop will be much bigger than any postwar crop if conditions continue favorable, and may even exceed the prewar average.

Forest Products—Sawwood and wood pulp production is expected to remain about the same as last year.
